For all things are for your sakes, that the abundant grace might through the thanksgiving of many redound to the glory of God.—II Corinthians iv chap. 15th verse.

The centennial of one of the greatest events in North Carolina history has just been celebrated at Fayetteville. We hope it has done much to arouse a becoming, dutiful and patriotic State pride of our justly proud history. Jeff. Davis' letter and Dr. Kingsbury's corrections and comments should be read, studied, memorized and preserved in every school and at every fireside in the State. We will give them both in full in a future issue.

David A. Wells in his able book, "Recent Economic Changes," just published, presents the great economic problem now so difficult of solution, in the following paragraph:

"To the producer the question of importance is, how can competition be restricted to an extent sufficient to prevent its injurious excesses? To the consumer, how can combination be restricted so as to secure its advantages and at the same time curbe its abuses?"

The former has already solved his question, but greatly to the detriment of the latter. It is time the consumer was aroused, or else he will himself be consumed.

In the death of Hon. W. T. Dortch, which sad event occurred at his residence in Go'dsboro, on the 21st instant, North Carolina lost one of her very best, ablest and purest men. He was born in Nash county in 1824 and was therefore in his 65th year. He represented North Carolina in the Senate of the Southern Confederacy during the war. From 1878 to 1882 he was the leader of the State Senate, and was made chairman of the Commission that revised our present code. As a lawyer he was probably the peer of any North Carolinian. One by one our great men fall. Will the rising generation furnish fitting successors?

The National Democrat says that the way to kill trusts is to have their plans and business operations inspected like banks and made public:

"If the secrecy with which the combinations known as 'trusts' are able to surround their conduct were taken away from them there would probably no 'trusts.'

"Why, then, do not the people compel these combination to reveal their operations?

"All the political doctors are engaged in studying these new scourges on the body politic. But they do not seem to hit upon the simple remedy which would very quickly scatter these odious conspiracies against the rights of the people."

The Farmers' Alliance is now demanding the very thing that the Democrat suggests.

THE TURKEY'S LAST GOBBLE.

Behold me now.
A Turkey with a big T!
Time, 9 o'clock a. m.
By 5 p. m.
What will I be?
A wreck;
A total wreck;
A travesty on animated organism;
A weird, bewildering
Entanglement of bones
And gravy;
A hollow mockery;
With every wad of stuffing
Eternally knocked out of it!
A ghost,
Clothed in the
Bony relics of its living entity!
A ruined destiny
Carved out
To stand a monument
To appetite!
A gobbler with his gobble
Gone to those
Who gobbled in another key!
A—
But hold,
This is Thanksgiving day!

THE LOST FOUND.

A THANKSGIVING STORY, BY ANNIE I. WILLIS.

[Copyright, 1889, by American Press Associations.]

R. WILKINS kissed his wife and children, climbed into his sleigh, tucked the old buffalo robe about him, gathered up the reins and drove off. It was a bright November morning, two days before Thanksgiving, for which great occasion he was going to town, twenty miles away, to "do some tradin'."

He told the children, Bob and Elsie, that he would come back with lots of things—peanuts and raisins, and perhaps some oranges, besides other eatables necessary for the Thanksgiving feast.

How the little ones shouted at the mention of oranges, for you must know that such dainties seldom fell to their share. Hard work, early and late, on the little farm, only sufficed to keep the family plainly clothed and fed, and they had very few luxuries.

As the sleigh jogged along the man fell to thinking of the dear ones who would watch for his return on the morrow.

"I'll give 'em a good Thanksgivin' if I can," he thought. "There ain't no family that deserves it more. Wisht I could sell everything I've got with me. Wouldn't I make their eyes open, though! Mebbe I could buy 'em some figs. The children's never seen any. An' I'd git Mirandy an egg beater. She ain't never had none."

The miles to town grew less as the horse went on, and the influence of the brilliant winter day made Mr. Wilkins happy, not so much because he was susceptible to nature's beauty, but because he thought: "If this here weather'll only hold out, I'll be back early ter-morrer."

Mrs. Wilkins spent the day in getting ready for the feast, with such materials as she had on hand. She killed the biggest and plumpest chicken in the yard. Bob looking on delightedly at the operation. Tender hearted Elsie ran into the house and put her fingers in her ears, so that she "could not hear the poor chicken cry," she said. Then there was rye bread to make, and a kind of "plain" sweet cake," the best they ever had. There were also dried apples and pumpkin pies to bake, the house to set in order and the chickens to feed. Nine year-old Bob and 6-year-old Elsie were eager to "help mother," and while the former fed old Red Top, the rooster, and his family, the little girl trotted around in her coarse brown cloak and blue hood sweeping the doorstep and picking up sticks in the yard for the fire, she said.

So the day wore on, and when the early winter evening closed in upon them, they had their simple supper of bread, mush and milk, and soon the little ones were asleep.

As Mrs. Wilkins sat sewing, she heard the wind rising, and went to the window to look out. The moon was partly covered by threatening clouds. While she watched they obscured the silver light completely.

"It looks mighty threatenin'," she said to herself. "I should feel real bad if pa couldn't git back for Thanksgivin', for the children has set so much store by what he's goin' to bring 'em. I wouldn't feel right good myself. We've eat our Thanksgivin' dinner together on that day this ten year, an' I've allers been thankful for my man an' children. There ain't many sech."

Thus her homely thoughts ran on until the light began to grow dim for the scarcity of oil in the lamp. Then she prepared for rest, first thanking God for her blessings and asking protection for her husband on his journey and a speedy return on the morrow.

Quiet brooded over the house and its inmates, over the little village near which they lived and over the tavern where the father lay, twenty miles away. But not for long. The rising winds, which had made themselves heard fitfully, now grew furious. They reveled in the open stretch of country around the Wilkins farm, which stood on the edge of the village, and chased each other across meadows whose crusted snow gleamed when the clouds were blown for a moment from the face of the moon. Soon more flakes began to fall, and, what with the wind and the smooth surface of the snow already fallen, were blown and whirled violently about until they threatened to hide some landmarks completely.

Mr. Wilkins' little house came in for a share of the drifts. It was low and white and square. Like many houses in rural New England, its rear door opened into a shed, behind which were the barn and outhouses, so that in case of storms the live stock could be easily reached. The snow played very queer pranks with the house that night. It left the roof almost bare, while it piled a drift in front which hid all but one corner of the window. It drifted against the barn door and hid the shed completely. Fortunately the well was under the shed roof and the chicken house could be reached without going out.

When Mrs. Wilkins awoke, her first thought was of the night before and her forebodings of a storm. She tried to look out, but the snow covered everything. Much frightened, she climbed to the loft of the one story house. Looking from the window, she perceived that not a person could be seen. The roads were piled with great white drifts, and the only house in sight, also a low one, was partially covered. Over all the sun was shining brightly. She saw at a glance that a sleigh could not get through the roads on that day and possibly not on the next. Then she went down and awoke the children.

"What's the matter, mother?" said Bob.

"Matter enough," replied Mrs. Wilkins. "We are snowed in, and father can't get home today."

At this little Elsie showed signs of crying, and her mother hastened to say, "But we'll have a Thanksgivin' when he does come, Elsie. P'raps he'll come tomorrer. See."

She got up, took the child to the window where the world was visible from one of the upper panes, and held her up.

"The sun's shinin' as nice as can be. That'll melt all the snow soon, and then we'll see father an' old Bess comin' down the road with lots o' good things."

This diverted Elsie, and she chattered gayly while her mother dressed her. Bob meantime climbed up and looked out of the small peep hole left by the snow.

"There ain't any people passing by, mother," he announced.

"No, nor won't be," she replied, "not till the snow's melted pretty considerable."

"What will we have to eat, mother?" he inquired.

"There's plenty o' things in the house," she said. "We sha'n't starve. Don't ye be afraid o' that, Bob."

After their breakfast of fried pork and johnny cake she went to feed the chickens. The children followed her, for it seemed "kind o' lonesome," as Bob said. No one passed all day. The sun shone out warm and bright, and, though they could not perceive it, was doing slowly but surely its good work for them. Bob looked out of the one pane of glass so long that he was tired. And it was no wonder, for he had to stand on tiptoe on the window sill to see out at all.

So the day wore on. When the children fretted their good mother talked about what father would bring, and how sure she was that he would come on the next day—the day of their great feast itself. She wasn't at all sure when she first said so, but this was her way of keeping her own hopes up, and she succeeded so well that she almost believed they would see old Bess and the sleigh Thanksgiving morning.

Wednesday had passed slowly to Mr. Wilkins in the dingy little hotel where he was staying. When he started for home early on the following morning the hangers on about the door forboded all sorts of evil results to his "foolhardy notion" of trying to get through such a snow, but he persisted in going.

"Seems es if I must," he told them.

It was hard work—harder than he had expected, but old Bess was a strong horse, and he himself used to rough weather.

Twelve miles were traveled without incident or accident. The rest of the way was lonely enough, some of it skirting woods and leading through glens. It was a wild, beautiful drive in summer, but desolate in winter. As Mr. Wilkins drove on, thoughts of an event of which he had heard in town recurred to his mind: "Judge Carter's little girl was lost; missing since Tuesday; servant took her to walk; neither of them seen since; a thousand dollars reward!" These had made little impression on the busy man at the time, but now, in the quiet of that lonely drive, they came back in fragments. He thought of his own little ones and of the awful weather that had prevailed since Tuesday, the day he had left home.

He was startled from his reverie by the sharp barking of a dog. It seemed to come from an old building off from the road, which, situated near a pond, had once been used as an ice house. He listened. Yes, that was the place from which the noise came, and the barking sounded as if something unusual had happened. The ice house was deeply filled with drifts, which lay thick between it and the road. He couldn't get through easily. It would hinder him in his journey, too. Perhaps he wouldn't see home that night, he said to himself. So he drove on.

What made him connect that dog's barking with the story of the lost child? He couldn't seem to get rid of that. He stopped, and again measured the distance and the height of the drifts, decided that it wasn't worth while to get through them "jist fur a dog," as he tried to make himself believe, and again started.

"What if it was your child?" The thought stung him.

"Well, here goes!" he said, and suited the action to the word by covering his horse with the sleigh robe and striking out for the house. It was a struggle even for the hardy farmer. As he neared the place the barking grew louder. The door on the side toward him was almost covered, so he made for the rear. That had been sheltered from drifts by the building, and a small door was accessible there. As he opened it a handsome Newfoundland dog rushed out, jumping on him and whining for joy. Mr. Wilkins' eyes, dazzled by the snow, could at first see nothing, but the dog pulled him toward the most sheltered corner of the place, where a four-year-old girl lay, white and motionless.

Mr. Wilkins dropped down beside her and felt her hands, head, and finally her heart. The little one was not dead, as he first thought, and his chief care was to revive her. Being utterly exhausted, all he could do at first was to fold her in his arms under his overcoat. Presently he started for the sleigh, followed by the faithful dog whose devotion had perhaps saved the child's life. He was anxious to reach the sleigh, for he had bethought himself of a bottle of milk which his host had put up with a lunch for him. That and the air seemed to revive the child. She clung to him, crying, until the dog poked his nose into her hand as he sat beside them on the sleigh seat. Then she smiled and tried to pat him, calling him "Nelo," her word for "Nero," which was the name on his collar. As soon as she had recovered sufficiently to sit up, Mr. Wilkins drove on towards home, planning to send word by the next person that passed his house bound townward, for he felt sure this was Judge Carter's lost daughter.

His work was not over when he reached home, and saw the little group waiting in the window for him. It was necessary to shovel his way in. His wife threw a rope to him from the loft window, attaching a shovel on the other end so that he could haul it out. When the way was clear he brought the now sleeping child in, and told how he had found her and the story he had heard.

Then what a talking and running to and fro commenced! The baby must be petted and fed and put to sleep, and the handsome dog must receive some attention.

THE DELIGHTS OF HOME.

"Will you tell us your name, dear?" said Mrs. Wilkins to the child, as she took her in her arms.

"Name, Nellie," said she, and, sure enough, her gold pin was so engraved.

"Mary," "ride," "doggy" and "big man," were all she could say plainly about where she had been. Perhaps no one could understand her sweet prattle but her mother. At the thought of that sorrowing woman, Mrs. Wilkins said with tears in her eyes:

"O Samuel, I'm just grieved thinkin' about this baby's mother. When can we send word?"

"Likes not some one'll be goin' to town in the mornin', Mirandy," he replied.

After drinking a cup of tea which his wife had prepared while he worked, Mr. Wilkins started out to get his horse and sleigh under cover. This done, he prepared for a pleasant evening with his family. After the children had asked questions to their heart's content about his adventure, the talk drifted around to themselves.

"We haven't had any Thanksgiving, father," said Elsie, as she sat on his knee.

"I think we have, child," said Mrs. Wilkins. "Isn't it Thanksgivin' enough to see father back safe? That's better than all the dinners we could eat."

"Never mind, Elsie; we'll keep Thanksgivin' to-morrer," said her father. "I don't know 's it makes much difference when we keep it es long es we're thankful enough."

"An' have lots to eat," put in Bob. "What did you bring us, father?"

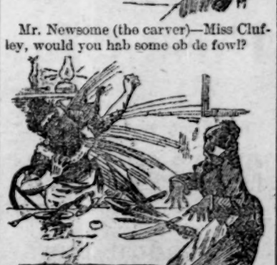
"You jest wait till morning an' see, Bob," said Mrs. Wilkins.

When morning came they found the oranges and raisins and all the good things, even to the figs, and to tell of what a feast they had, and how jolly they were, and how the little stranger enjoyed it with them, would be a long story.

It was not hard to interest their nearest neighbor in the lost child, and, as he had kept Thanksgiving on the right day, he volunteered to go at once to town. It was found that a servant had gone to walk with little Nellie and Nero, the dog, a little distance up the road, she had said. They had not returned, but the girl was last seen riding with a stranger whose slouched hat prevented his being recognized. Nothing definite was ever found out, but it was conjectured that she, wanting to be rid of the child and dog without going home, had left them in the old ice house, supposing that the dog's barking would attract attention from passers-by.

The grateful parents insisted on doubling the reward when they learned how much Mr. Wilkins had done to find little Nellie. The sum seemed like a fortune to the poor farmer. He bought more land with it, and very good land it proved to be, so good that it made life less hard for the Wilkins family. Little luxuries, hitherto unknown, became possible, and there never was a time when, from a pecuniary as well as a moral point of view, Mr. Wilkins was not glad he had fought his way through the drifts into the icehouse at the call of the dog and so saved the little one that was lost.

A Natural Presumption.



"Great heavens!" said the barnyard rooster, as he watched the feeble fluttering of a poor turkey, after the ax came down, "I wonder what the matter is with his nibs, the gobbler?"

"Well, judging from his actions," replied a facetious little bantam, "I should say that he had lost his head."

A Thanksgiving Sermon.

A BROAD AND STATESMAN-LIKE VIEW FROM A HIGH CHRISTIAN STAND-POINT.

Dr. Marable Sees Much Cause for Thankfulness.

THREE GREAT REASONS.

As had been announced, Dr. B. F. Marable preached a Thanksgiving sermon in the Presbyterian church on last Sabbath. The opening prayer was beautifully appropriate and impressive. Text: LXVII Psalm. The Doctor said that the prayer of Dayid as given in the Psalm contained two ideas: first the duty of the nations of the Earth to glorify God with praise and thanksgiving; second that as a result God would bless us and the earth would yield her increase. Next Thursday is a great National Holiday—a day of thanksgiving for the Nation, therefore we will speak of our cause for thankfulness as a Nation as well as individuals. There are those who entertain the opinion that as a Nation we have nothing to do with God and that God takes no cognizance of us as a Nation. It is true that some of our worst men have been selected to fill high stations and that for a time our government has been conducted with selfish and unholy aims and ambitions, that laws have been placed upon our statute books that oppressed weak and suffering humanity, outraged common justice and seemed to disregard all dependence upon a higher power, but despite these occasional abnormal and deplorable conditions, when the great national heart is aroused and throbs out its true impulses it stamps on the face of our national life the evidences of our dependence upon the great Ruler of nations and shows that the foundation rock of our government is placed on the great book of books.

The proclamation that sets apart next Thursday as a day of prayer and thanksgiving and every other official document is dated 1889 (or some other year) anno domini—year of our Lord. Thus officially bearing testimony every day to the divinity and supremacy of Christ of the God head Trinity. Take the American dollar, on it is stamped, in addition to the many devices, the words "In God we trust"; and this the coveted measure of value goes forth to the world as an evangelist of truth and a preacher of the Christian Faith of the founders and rulers of our more perfect Union of this assemblage of free and independent Christian commonwealths; and so on we might go multiplying the evidences of the Faith that is in us that God Almighty holds in His hands and disposes of the destiny of nations sooner or later according to their merits.

But to come to our subject—our causes for thanksgiving—leaving all our local conditions and causes, we will notice only three of the great reasons for national joy and thanksgiving: First, we, as a nation are at peace with the other

NATIONS OF THE EARTH.

Do we fully realize how much that means? Look at the dangerous and terribly unsettled condition of Europe to-day. Despotic Russia and land-worshipping England, with gigantic strong armies, standing like tremendous bull-dogs, watching and growling at each other, ready at the least provocation for a tremendous and direful conflict. Look at restless France and stubborn Germany with their respective friends and allies watching each other in the same significant and dogged manner. To the north of us is a part of the dominion of that same grasping and territory-loving John Bull; to south of us is the unstable and mongrel population of Mexico, composed of six distinct nationalities, and the wavering South American countries in one of which has just occurred a significant and mighty revolution, while just at the gates of our great river and gulf commerce lies the West Indies, the very hot bed of revolution, and yet surrounded as we are on all sides by these dangerous elements of international discord and imminent strife, we are resting in peace, harmony and quiet. Secondly, we are at

PEACE WITH OURSELVES.

Here we have a great conglomerated population, some of which, especially in the North West, is composed of the most undesirable and dangerous elements from every nationality on the globe, the Anarchists from Germany, the Nihilists from Russia, the tramps, vagaboads, thieves, and refugees from everywhere—and on these dangerously combustible elements the vile politician, as corrupt as Cataline, as base as Clodius, and as treacherous as Arnold, plays recklessly to suit his own unworthy and selfish objects and ends, and yet despite all these elements of danger, we have internal peace and harmony.

Thirdly, we are the only civilized nation on the face of the globe where the citizens all enjoy undisturbed enjoyment of

RELIGIOUS FREEDOM.

Here every man has the unquestioned and unquestionable right of making terms with his God after the dictates of his own conscience. This right is a part of our very national existence, our fundamental law, and inalienable right guaranteed by our constitution. During the last twenty-five years every principle of the Constitution has probably been violated save this of religious freedom, and this alone stands unfringed, as fixed and left by the great founders. Is there any explanation for all this? Can legal acumen furnish the answer? Can the philosophy of statesmanship solve the mystery? No answer comes. Then what is the explanation? Answer: "The Lord reigneth." His strong and all-powerful hand is guiding our destiny. Then let us praise and magnify Him with joy and thanksgiving that the earth may bring forth its increase and that He may continue to bless us!

[The above is but a very imperfect outline of the able and impressive sermon delivered by the learned Doctor, and you must let your imagination fill the skeleton with strong and beautiful language, punctuated with many apt and forcible illustrations to do the great sermon simple justice.—EDITOR.]

GOVERNOR FITZHUGH LEE.

Last week we gave a side view picture of the handsome and dashing Governor of Virginia in uniform. This week we give a front view in the costume of a civilian. He is to day the most prominent Southern Democrat. Don't fail to hear him speak at the Sampson Fair.

CLINTON, N. C., --NOV. 28, 1889.

The State Board of Agriculture will meet in Raleigh on Dec. 3rd at 4 o'clock.

Products of the Dairy! Handiwork from your fingers! Results of your art in cookery, etc.! Who can excel Sampson in these? In these, let us convince the world that we are leaders, by our exhibit at the Sampson Fair.

New Berne and vicinity was visited on last Thursday by a severe storm, doing much damage. The Veneer and Wood Plate Factory of the S. H. Gray Manufacturing Company was blown down and made almost a complete ruin. The loss is about $7,500.

What are you going to bring to the Sampson Fair? Have you good stock. Have you good poultry? Have you good corn or grain of any kind? If so, as a good citizen you will bring it to the Fair and prove to the world that we have a live and progressive county.

We have just received a copy of the first issue of the University Magazine for this year. A fine steel engraving of the late Prof. R. H. Graves adorns the first leaf. There is also an excellent article on his life and character by Prof. Winston. We are pleased to note that our townsman T. M. Lee is one of the editors.

The Sampson County Alliance has paid more money to the State Business Agency Fund than any other Alliance in North Carolina, which State by the way the banner commonwealth in the great brotherhood. Now let us give the visitors to our Sampson Fair an object lesson in Agriculture, that will sustain our enviable record.

A special to the Wilmington Messenger says:

There is great excitement in Chatham county, arising from the capture of J. P. Davis, who is charged with the murder of John A. Haughton, a worthy farmer of that county, who disappeared very mysteriously ten days ago. He was captured in Danville and brought to Greensboro. Such is the excitement in the vicinity of the murder that it was decided to keep him in jail at Greensboro for the present. He was charged with the murder and confessed the crime. He killed Haughton, he said, in order to get possession of his farm. He killed him with a bootjack and buried the body in the barn.

Don't fail to hear that popular statesman and gallant soldier, Gov. Fitzhugh Lee, of Virginia, who will be at the Sampson Fair next week.

"Breathes there a man with soul so dead,
Who never to himself has said,
This is my own, my native" county.
Then if your soul is not dead, bring something, bring everything worthy to the Sampson County Fair.

WHAT OUR NEIGHBOR

Cotemporaries Say of Our Approaching Fair.

The Sampson Coun tFair.

All the indications point to the fact that the Sampson County Fair, to be held at Clinton on December 4th, 5th and 6th, will be the biggest and best ever held there. The premium list is large and varied, and there will undoubtedly be a handsome display of the products of the fields, as well as of the work shops, and in live stock also it is expected there will be a fine display, as Sampson county is noted for its fine blooded cattle and horses, as well as hogs, poultry, etc. In addition to the display of things the programme includes the opening of the fair by His Excellency, Gov. Fowle, on Wednesday, the 4th, and a speech by Gov. Fitzhugh Lee, on Thursday, the 5th, Veteran's Day—and an address by Hon. C. W. Macune, President National Alliance, on Friday, the 6th, Alliance Day. We hope our Pender people will compete for some of the premiums offered. —Bargaw Herald.

The Fair at Clinton.

The approaching Sampson Fair promises to be one of the most interesting and attractive in its history of a quarter of a century. Gov. Fowle will formerly open the Fair on Wednesday, December 4th, Gen. Lee, Governor of Virginia, will speak on Thursday, Veteran's Day, while Hon. C. W. Macune, editor of the National Economist, is expected to speak on Friday, Alliance Day. These names are sufficient to draw a large crowd, but, in addition, the exhibits at Sampson Fair are always good. We wish the farmers in our neighboring county of Sampson a much deserved success.—Wilson Star.

Sampson Fair.

Our friends in Sampson are putting forth unusual zeal and effort to make their approaching Fair a great success. The last fair held in that county was in 1884, we think. Up to that time the Sampson fairs were famous throughout the whole State. As the people in the good old county never do things by halves, and with the array of distinguished speakers they will have this year, we are sure, the attractions will be unprecedented.

Wilmington can rightfully claim an interest in this fair for it is the only one held this year in our immediate territory. Our merchants have contributed liberally in special premiums and there will no doubt be a large attendance from this place.

The Atlantic Coast Line will sell round trip tickets to Clinton, including one admission to the Fair, at the following rates: Goldsboro, $1.45; Fremont, $1.50; Wilson, $1.80; Tarboro, $2.70; Rocky Mount, $2.20; Weldon, $2.99; Mount Olive, $1.30; Faisons, $1.10; Warsaw 85 cents; Magnolia, $1.05; Duplin Roads, $1.35; Burgaw, $1.45; Rocky Point, $1.60; Wilmington, $1.90. Tickets will be on sale from December 2nd to 6th, and will be good for returning until December 7th.—Wilmington Messenger.

We are really pleased to know that the gallant Fitzhugh Lee, nephew of the Great Robert E. Lee, and a soldier of merit, as well as Governor of Virginia, will attend the Sampson County Fair, that begins on the 4th of December and continues for 3 days. He will deliver an agricultural address. Our Sampson friends are to be congratulated and we feel sure they will have a satisfactory exhibit. North Carolina will always be ready to greet warmly Gov. Lee.—Wilson Mirror.

A Populous Event.

The Clinton Fair, opening December 4th, promises to be a great and populous event. Gov. Fowle will open the Fair, and Gov. Lee, of Virginia, and the President of the National Farmers' Alliance, will be of the speakers during the event.—Goldsboro Argus.

THE CENTENNIAL.

Thousands Present to Witness the Great Event.

(Staff Correspondence THE CAUCASIAN.)

Tuesday, the 19th inst., was the beginning of the celebration of the one hundreth anniversary of the adoption of the Constitution of the United States by North Carolina at Fayetteville.

The Centennial and the Agricultural Fair of Cumberland came off at the same time, and by Tuesday night the number of visitors in Fayetteville was estimated at 10,000. On Wednesday, which was really the opening day of the Centennial, the number was increased by as many more, coming from every portion of the State and many from our neighboring States.

Gov. Fowle began the programme in an eloquent and ornate speech of about fifteen minutes and was loudly cheered at its close. The marshals and the military had previously met him at the train on his arrival and escorted him to the grand stand. The marshals were a handsome body of men, and were all representative men from their respective sections.

Thursday, the day that was set apart for the grandest and best of the programme, opened gloomy. From midnight to 11 o'clock in the morning the rain fell unceasingly and it was a blue day for everybody until about 1 o'clock, when the clouds cleared away. All during the morning trains were coming in on the various roads, bringing thousands of visitors, notwithstanding the downpour of rain, and it was estimated that there were 30,000 people present when Senator Matt Ransom began the Centennial Oration, at 2 o'clock The grand stand was filled to its utmost capacity and the streets were blocked by a living mass, pushing and crowding in a vain endeavor to hear the eloquent words that fell from the lips of our senior Senator. But only those on the stand could catch more than an occasional sentence of this great speech. For two hours Senator Ransom thrilled his hearers with such eloquent and patriotic words as are seldom heard in a life time.

At the conclusion of Senator Ransom's address Senator Vance was called for and as the venerable and beloved chieftain of North Carolina's Democracy arose, cheer after cheer greeted him from many thousand throats. The Senator in a few words stated that he had been placed upon the program for Friday and for this time he simply wished the people all the enjoyments of the season.

The U. S. Marine Band of about 50 pieces arrived Tuesday night and furnished delightful music throughout the exercises. It was one of the most attractive features of the Centennial and its concerts were very much enjoyed.

There were six military Companies present,—Wilmington, Fayetteville, Durham, Lumber Bridge, Raleigh and Clinton At the competitive drill on Friday the first prize was awarded to the Governor's Guards of Raleigh and the second to the Wilmington Light Infantry.

Friday was the big day of the Fair. Senator Vance delivered an able, and as usual witty and well received address at 12 o'clock, after which the Agricultural address was delivered by Hon. W. J. Green.

The number of visitors was immense and the Hotels were all packed besides many private houses.

But for the roughness of the weather Thursday causing the leaving off of much of the program it would have been a very pleasant occasion throughout. The managers of both Centennial and Fair deserve much praise for the efforts they put fourth to make both a success.

The citizens of Fayetteville are always ready and willing to do anything in their power to carry out whatever the place undertakes and as is characteristic of them held out such hospitality to visitors as is found in but few places.

More prominent men were probably assembled in Fayetteville on Thursday than have been assembled at any place at any time in North Carolina since the adoption of the Federal Constitution 100 years ago at the same place.

LAURINBURG, N. C., Sept. 17th, 1889.
Messrs. J. C. Stevenson & Taylor, Wilmington, N. C.:

DEAR SIRS:—After using the half barrel "Champion Food" purchased of you we can readily say that it has fulfilled every representation made for it so far as we have tried it. In no instance has it failed to benefit stock fed on it. We can particularly recommend it for milch cows, calves and colts. We regard it as the best stock food on the market. Send us another half barrel.

Yours Truly,

ALEX. McKINNON & CO.

WILMINGTON, N. C., Oct. 10th, 1889.
Messrs. J. C. Stevenson & Taylor:

GENTLEMEN:—The "Champion Food" you sold us has been given a fair trial, it is a success, and we are glad to add testimony to its worth. When fed to our horses we find it aids digestion, creates an appetite and the animal improves at once; it is a great conditioner, and a trial will prove its value. We have fed it to our cows and with them also it has proved a great digestive, both the flow and the quality of the milk has improved, the per centage of increase we cannot yet positively state. The food does all you claim in the line of tests we have made; we shall continue its use and advise all the owners of stock to give it a trial.

—Thanksgiving is always a duty.

—Next week Sampson Agricultural Fair!

—Next Tuesday, entrance day at the Sampson Fair.

—Sampson Agricultural Fair opens on next Wednesday.

—Remember, you must enter your articles at the fair on next Tuesday.

—The City Fathers have placed a new bridge over Cat-Tail, with a much needed hand-railing

—At former fairs Wednesday has been entrance day, but remember that it is Tuesday this year.

—Mr. Oliver Blackburn will have charge of THE CAUCASIAN headquarters on the Fair Grounds next week.

—The article by "A Collard" on the Agricultural Financial Situation will be continued in next week's issue.

—The Sampson Fair will be an exception this year. No gamblers nor whiskey will be allowed on the grounds.

—Remember an excursion ticket to Clinton, to attend the Sampson Fair, will be good from the 4th to the 7th of December.

—There will be more people in Clinton during next week than this place has seen in many a-day. Let us make such an exhibit as will do our fine old county credit.

—If you are prosperous and happy, you should be thankful for these temporal blessings; if you are in trouble, thanksgiving has an advantage over complaining.

The Secretary and the various committees will be on the Fair grounds next Tuesday all day to receive and place the exhibits. Be sure to bring everything in by Tuesday night.

—Bring your articles for exhibit to the fair grounds on next Tuesday. The Secretary and the various committees will be there all day to issue entry tickets and receive the articles to be placed on exhibit.

—Bring something! Let everybody bring something however small and place on exhibit next week at the Sampson fair. This is the way to make everything a success. Let everybody help a little.

—A special car will leave on next Tuesday, in charge of a special committee, to bring Gov. Lee and his Staff from Richmond, Va. Don't fail to come and hear the gallant soldier and popular Governor.

—The present indications are that the attendance at the Sampson Fair this year will be unprecedented. Clinton, with her usual large hearted hospitality, will do all in her power to entertain all who come.

—The Ladies who are the special committee for decorating, and arranging exhibit are requested to meet on the Fair Grounds next Saturday at 9 o'clock A. M. for the purpose of decorating the Floral Hall.

—Every member of the Executive Committee of the Fair Association is earnestly requested to meet in the President's office Sunday morning at 10 o'clock to perfect the final arrangements with reference to the Fair.

—The military companies of Fayetteville, Goldsboro and Wilmington have been invited to attend the Sampson Fair and join in the escort of Gov. Lee and the other distinguished speakers to and from the grounds.

—Our friends along the C. F. & Y. V. Extension are showing much enterprise and determination to build up and develope that section of the county. Sales of lots have taken place at a number of depots and buildings are going up. See advertisement of sale of lots at Roseboro and Parkersburg.

—During the fair the train on the Clinton & Warsaw branch will make four trips per day making connection with the Shoofly (No. 41) going south at 9:40, with No. 78 going north at 10:50, with No 23 going south at 4:7, and No. 40 going north at 5:53. Thus giving persons coming to and going from the fair every convenience that could be desired in the way of travel.

—We have heard several parties in speaking of Thanksgiving Day say that they had nothing for which to be thankful. We wonder if any one of those parties would like to exchange "hes" situation for the one in which Jonah of old found himself once upon a time. Yet Jonah prayed with a voice of Thanksgiving to be brought out of the belly of hell, "and the good Lord spake unto the fish, and it vomited out Jonah upon the dry land"; and if any such parties did not hear Dr. Marable's sermon on last Sabbath, we advise "hem" to read a synopsis of it in this week's issue, remember the nine lepers who neglected Thanksgiving.

—We are constantly receiving requests for copies of the premium list of the Sampson Fair and shipping directions from the adjoining counties and all up and down the W. W. Railroad. We understand that a great many will come up from Wilmington and other places at a distance to attend the fair. In fact the outlook is for one of the best exhibits and the largest attendance we have ever had. This is the last Fair in the state for this year, and at no place has there been such distinguished speakers as we will be honored with. General Fitzhugh Lee is the most prominent public man in the South to-day and thousands will take advantages of the opportunity to come, see and hear him.

—Dr. Marable's lectured on last Sunday evening on the negro and the redemption of Africa was bright, fresh and entertaining and impressive. He said we once feared negro domination and race amalgamation. These days are now passed. To-day the negro's squalid poverty and stolid ignorance solicit our sympathy. Recent observation and occurrences had modified his feelings towards the unfortunate race. Livingston and Stanley were bringing to a realization the prophesy of Victor Hugo, that before the close of this century Africa would be the cynosure of the eyes of nations. Already, before civilization has scarcely made an impress upon the Congo State, christian missions are spreading divine light in the savage wilderness of almost hopeless darkness. Let the churches here be among the first in the South to aid in this great work.

PROGRAMME FOR VETERANS' DAY

To Be Formed in Main Street, in Front of Courthouse, at 11 O'clock and Proceed to the Fair Grounds.

Chief Marshal and Aids.
Band.
Two Companies of Military.
Right Wing of Veterans.
Governor and Staff.
Distinguished Visitors.
Left Wing of Veterans.
Two Companies of Military.

Before forming line it will be necessary for each Veteran to register his name and receive his necessary badge of admission into the Fair Grounds, as no one will be passed in who is without the badge. The registration book will be in charge of a member of Executive Committee in Courthouse Room, who will furnish badges of admission.

Exhibitors, Take Notice!

Next Tuesday, Dec. 3rd will be entrance day for articles to be placed on exhibit at the Sampson Fair. The assistant Secretary, Capt. O. L. Chesnutt, will be pleased to fill out and issue entry tickets in advance on any day from now till then, so that parties may have the articles already tagged when brought to the grounds on Tuesday. Those who can not do this, will have tickets issued to them in the Secretary's office on the fair grounds. Parties living at a distance will be allowed to enter articles till 10 o'clock Wednesday Dec. 4th, but positively nothing will be received after that hour.

An Old Fashion Fox Hunt.

On Saturday morning Dec. 7th, after the closing of the Sampson fair, there will be an old fashion fox hunt around the town of Clinton. There will be 50 or more dogs in the chase and every man and lady who can secure a good horse is invited to join the party and enjoy the fun. A premium of $10.00 is offered by Dr. J. A. Stevens for the dog that leads in the chase. Every competing dog must start with the party from Clinton at day break on Saturday morning.

Annual Conference at Greensboro.

The fifty-third session of the North Carolina Annual Conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, convened in Greensboro yesterday the 27th inst., Bishop Robert K. Hargrove, of Tennessee, presiding. The session will be a very important one in view of several special matters to come before it. Mr. D. B. Nicholson and Rev. C. P. Jerome of this place are attending.

ARMORY OF SAMPSON LIGHT INFANTRY,
November 26th, 1889.

Special Order
No. ——.

The members of the Sampson Light Infantry are hereby ordered to meet at the armory on Wednesday, the 4th day of December next, at 9:30 A. M., for the purpose of participating in the opening exercises of the Sampson County Fair.

Governor Fowle of North Carolina has been invited to open the Fair, and duty to our county and respect to the Commander in Chief of North Carolina, demands the presence of each member.

Three military companies are expected on Wednesday evening and on Thursday Governor Lee, of Virginia will be here under the escort of the Military and Veterans, and the Sampson Light Infantry will also participate. By order of

W. L. FAISON, Captain.
A. H. HERRING, O. S.

A Good Word for the Sampson Fair.

Col. E. D. Hall, of Wilmington, has the following item in the Messenger of the 27th concerning Gov. Lee and our Fair:—

EDITOR MESSENGER:—It is to be hoped that the good people of Wilmington will not only contribute all in their power to make the display at the Clinton Fair a decided success, and to show by a large attendance of our people the great admiration and respect all North Carolina should feel for that able statesman and world renowned soldier Fitzhugh Lee, the distinguished Governor of the glorious old dominion, who will deliver the address on this occasion. In a recent conversation had with Gov. Lee, I am satisfied he expects and hopes to see and address a typical audience of the Cape Fear region, of whose history and enviable reputation he seems to be well aware and appreciates. Let not only Wilmington but all of our section give him a right royal welcome. The facility and cheapness of transportation put the trip within the reach of nearly every one. Let us give old Sampson a hearty help.

TAYLOR'S BRIDGE.

Rev. D. B. Clayton will preach at Red Hill on the 2nd Sunday in December next.

Taylors Bridge Academy under the management of Prof. Thomas Sloan, assisted by Miss Mary Lou Williams, is in a very prosperous condition. It is a good school and deserves the hearty patronage it is receiving. The young men of this school have a good literary society and the young ladies a fine literary club. The latter feature is one should be adopted in all the schools that are attended by girls. It affords them an opportunity to develop talents that might otherwise remain forever dormant just for the lack of an opportunity to show themselves.

LISBON.

Building has commenced at Garland station on the C. F. & Y. V. Extension. Several lots were sold two weeks ago and Garland will soon be numbered among the progressive towns of Sampson County.

LITTLE COHARIE.

There will be a sale of town lots at Roseboro, near Owenville, on Saturday, Dec. 7th by Messrs. Sessoms & Underwood. This station is well located and promises to be one of the most prosperous on the C. F. & Y. V. Extension.

PINEY GROVE.

Mr. J. D. Ireland's family left for Mobile, Ala. yesterday where Mr. Ireland has been for some time with the firm of Wm. Turner & Co.

The residence of Mr. J. D. Ireland caught fire from live coals carried out the chimney by the draught and falling upon the roof and narrowly escaped being burned.

Several from this township attended the Fayetteville Centennial last week.

FRANKLIN.

$5.00 by Franklin Farmers Alliance (No. 748) (N. H. Fennell Pres.) to the winner of a foot race of 200 yds. to be competed for by three of the leanest lawyers of the Clinton bar. Race to take place Friday at 2 o'clock P. M.

A severe cyclone passed through the Beatty's Bridge section on last Thursday. It came from the direction of Kelly's Cave and passed up North East. The track of the cyclone was about ¼ mile wide and did much damage in its track blowing down dwellings and out houses, uprooting trees, in fact sweeping nearly everything in its track.

SOUTH CLINTON.

Miss Lillie Peterson, daughter of Mr. Everett Peterson, aged about 24 years died suddenly last Monday with heart disease.

NEWTON GROVE.

Some of our planters are preparing for another crop.

Our farmers are getting through picking cotton.

Mr. A. H. Williams has taken a school in Mingo township. His school opened with fifty pupils.

Many of our people were at the Centennial at Fayetteville last week.

Miss Flora Monk has been visiting friends in Fayetteville.

Our people will all attend the Fair at Clinton next week. WE.

WESTBROOKS.

Married, Tuesday, November 2, 1889, at the residence of the bride's mother, Mrs. Caroline Daughtry, Mr. Petit Hudson to Miss Lucy A. Daughtry, Rev. Lundy Lee officiating. The attendants were as follows: Mr. John E. Warren with Miss Rosabell West; Mr. B. I. Tart with Miss Jennie McPhail; Mr. J. R. Daughtry with Miss Sallie A. Hudson; Mr. Robert Hudson with Miss Mary Daughtry; Mr. J. D. West with Miss Carrie Daughtry; Mr. B. J. Daughtry with Miss Bertie Tart; Mr. William McLamb with Miss Ellen V. Tart.

Died, at her home, in Westbrook's township, Nov. 23d, 1889, Mrs. Annie Harris. She leaves a husband and two children to mourn their loss.

Died, at his home, in Westbrook's township, Nov. 24th, '89, Mr. Bradley West. He had been confined to his bed for several weeks with typhoid fever. We was twenty years of age and leaves a host of friends and relatives to mourn his early death.

Mr. Samson Warren came near receiving a painful hurt at his cotton gin last Monday. He was like Mr. Watson, who has just lost his arm, cleaning away seed from about the saws when his hand was caught. One of his fingers was painfully cut and another slightly scared. Too much caution cannot be used around a cotton gin.

Special Premiums.

The following special premiums have been offered since the premium list was published.

One fine riding bridle by M. E. Hobbs for the best boy horse-back rider under 12 years. Competing ride to take place on Thursday.

One pair of shoes by G. A. Clute, Alliance store, for the best 6 months old pig, exhibited at Sampson Fair.

One bottle Russian Hair Restorer ($1.00) by Clinton Drug Store (Dr. A. M. Lee & Bro.) for the handsomest man with the least number of hairs on his head; Also 1 qt. of family medicinal whiskey for the housewife that has on exhibit the finest goards; Also one large box Lee's horse and mule wart salve ($1.00) for the finest mule; One large box condition powders for the finest hog that has recovered from an attack of cholera.

$10, by Dr. J. A. Stevens for the best fox hound; test to be made in the fox hunt on Saturday morning after Fair, December 7th.

Items From Bladen.

Mr. W. J. Melvin has two rattlesnake hides that measure 9½ and 10 feet in length, and hold five and six quarts of meal bran respectively. Who can beat it?

The statement we made last week that Mr. A. A. McKay had gone to Georgia was a mistake, as he is still at Waddell's Ferry doing business.

Miss Annie S. Lee left last week for Fayetteville. She will spend some time with friends and relatives.

Mr. Robert Smith had the misfortune to cut his leg quite seriously last week. He was passing through a swamp with his axe. His axe became entangled in some vines and in trying to extricate it from the vines he gave a sudden pull and the axe fell with full force on his leg and inflicted a wound just above the kneecap.

Mr. R. P. Melvin is having some very fine timber cut. It is the finest that we have ever had the pleasure of beholding MELODIA.

Godwin Items.

The I. O. G. T. of Black's chapel had a public meeting on Saturday night, and afther highly entertaining their audience with able speeches and essays they extended invitations to any who wished to enlist with them and several names were sent in, showing that the good work shall still continne.

Rev. J. J. Barker leaves to day for Conference at Greensboro.

Many of our enterprising farmers attended the Centennial and had a grand time but can not be satisfied without going to hear that grand orator (Gen. Lee) who will speak at the fair at Clinton.

The Rev. J. J. Barker preached an excellent sermon at Black's Chapel on Sunday, as the Rev. Z. J. Needham could not be there.

Sampson County, N. C.

WHEREAS, it has pleased our Great Leader, in His inevitable wisdom, to remove from our Order, July 21st, 1889, our much esteemed brother, N. J. KING, therefore,

Resolved, That while our hearts are sad at this dispensation of His Providence, we bow in humble submission to His will, believing that all His dealings, with His children, are right, just and good.

Resolved, That in his death our Alliance has lost one of its most promising members, and Poplar Grove Baptist Church a beloved member.

Resolved, That we tender to the family and loved ones of our deceased brother, our heartfelt sympathy and condolence in their sad affliction.

Resolved, That a copy of the resolutions be spread upon the minutes of this Alliance, and a copy be sent to THE CLINTON CAUCASIAN for publication.

"A Compliment That Should Not Be Ignored."

The Wilmington Star of yesterday says—

The Wilmington Light Infantry have been invited to meet Gov. Fitzhugh Lee at Warsaw and act as his special escort to the Sampson Fair, and it is hoped that nothing may intervene to prevent the acceptance of this invitation. It is a compliment to the Light Infantry; it is a compliment to the people of wilmington; and it is a compliment that should not be ignored.

Personals.

Mrs. Haywood Peterson is visiting in Wilmington.

Messrs. J. L. Stewart, W. S. Thomson, H. E. Falson, F. R. Cooper and E. W. Kerr, of the Clinton Bar, are attending Duplin Court this week.

IN MEMORIAM.

"Be ye also ready for in such an hour as ye think not the Son of man cometh."

Died, suddenly, on the 25th of November, 1889, at her home, near Clinton, MISS LILLIE J. PETERSON, second daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Everett Peterson, in the 28th year of her age. Always joyous and gay, carrying sunshine and gladness wherever she went, driving out dull, cold care, as doth the autumn winds the forest leaves. But our sunshine has vanished and is basking in the smiles of her Heavenly Father, where pain and sorrow are no more.

And she has a beautiful home in a garden fair,
By the side of a crystal stream,
And the flowers that scatter their fragrance there
Are fair as an angel's dream.

NOT ENOUGH MONEY.

The News and Observer in discussing two able articles, one by President Battle, the other by President Andrews, of Brown's University, on the currency, says:

Between 1870 and 1888 population showed an increase of 59 per cent; cereal crops of 97 per cent; pig iron of 200 per cent; cotton, 112 per ct; Postal receipts 167 per cent., and railway mileage 235 per cent. The money work of the country has increased much more rapidly than has the amount of money in circulation. The increase in money has not kept pace with the expansion of industry.

The marked fall in prices has been attributed to many causes, but usually not to insufficiency of money supply. Yet there has been a great increase in the demand for money or its substitutes. There can be but one conclusion. The universally recognized rise in the command of money over goods is in part due to the inadequacy of the money supply of the country to the money work that is to be done. The above is the conclusion of President Brown, and likewise of President Battle. It is but a repetition of what we saidelast week. Our property has increased in greater ratio than population, and than our money, and the uses of money have increased in still greater ratio. We experience a decline in values that is fruitful of evil and fills us with forebodings.

Boils and Carbuncles Cured.

For years I have been constantly troubled with humors in the blood, which caused the breaking out of boils and carbuncles all over my body, that when bruised would make a lasting, ugly sore. I consulted many eminent physicians and took a great deal of medicine without any perceptible benefit. Nothing helped me but Swift's Specific (S. S. S.) That medicine cured me! I am now enjoying excellent health, and there is not a blemish of any kind on my body.

Inherited Scrofula.

Swift's Specific (S. S. S.) cured my little boy of hereditary scrofula, which broke out all over his face. For a year he had suffered, and I had given up all hopes of his recovery, when at length I was induced to use S. S. S. After using a few bottles he was entirely cured. Not a symptom now remains of the disease. This was three years ago.

Mr. John A. Cleary, sexton of Oakwood Cemetery, Waco, Texas, says: "Swift's Specific (S. S. S.) is a sure cure for any description of blood poison! About a year ago I contracted a poisonous blood disease, and tried a number of remedies without avail. I was about to become disheartened, when a friend induced me to try S. S. S. After taking a part of one bottle I was a sound man, and no symptoms of the fell disease have ever returned."

Lee & Brother keep only such; they also carry a full line of Patent Medicines, Essential Oils, Perfumery, Trusses, English Tooth Brushes, Medicinal Whiskey, Horse and Cattle Powders and the best remedies for all diseases and ailments of Horses, Mules, Cattle, Hogs, Poultry, etc.

LEE'S
Backache Plasters
In North Carolina's sunny clime,
Their wond'rous virtues, fadeless still,
Exert an influence sublime,
In ministering to human ill.
And many a pang along our way.
Lee's Plasters doth allay.
You can cure a bad case of Backache quicker with one of Lee's plasters than by any other application, and after the backache is cured, you can still wear the plaster with comfort for a month, or longer. This plaster is a great discovery, and it is hard to find any pain or ache that will not yield to it. Prepared only by T. J. LEE, Druggist.

PURE MEDICINAL WHISKEY.
A pure and wholesome medicinal stimulant is a desideratum greatly needed. To supply this want Pure Barley Corn Whiskey, four years old, is offered to the public, with the guarantee of its perfect purity and wholesomeness in every particular. This liquor is the pure extract of CORN and BARLEY, and is neither Drugged, Liquored nor Watered in any instance. Sold only by DR. A. M. LEE & BRO., Druggists.

LEE'S WART SPECIFIC.
A certain cure for warts on horses and mules as Col. John Ashford, Capt. Cornelius Partrick, Capt. W. Lucius Faison, Mr. W. H. Faison, Col. Abner M. Faison and hundreds of others in Sampson and adjoining counties will certify. Sold only by T. J. LEE, Druggist.

WORMS IN HORSES.
Lee's Worm Specific never fails to expel worms from horses and mules. Warranted in every case. Sold only by T. J. LEE, Druggist.

HORSE AND CATTLE POWDERS.
We offer under this head the best nutrition Powders in the market. They are prepared by the leading Drug House of the United States, from the formula of Dr. Williams, of England, the most distinguished Veterinary Surgeon living. They are excellent appetizers, a general alterative and tonic, and can be relied upon as a remedy for all diseases of domestic animals. They are composed of Licorice Root, Juniper Berries, Flaxseed, Gentian, Ginger, Iron and Antimony. Sold only by DR. A. M. LEE & BRO., Druggists.

HOLLIDAY'S
DRUG STORE!
"A STITCH IN TIME SAVES NINE!"
Don't wait to get sick, but when you begin to feel bad come and get a dose of medicine and prevent sickness. This is the proper use of medicine. If you will do this you will scarcely ever have a doctor's bill to pay or lose months of time, and put your friends and relatives to such a deal of trouble.
In addition to my complete line of pure and reliable Drugs, I carry Warner's Log Cabin Remedies, B. B. B., the S. S. S., Quinine in small and large quantities; Simmon's Liver Regulator, Famous Specific Orange Blossom, Cuticura Remedies, Dr. Pierces Favorite Prescription, the Golden Medical Discovery, Horse and Cattle Powder (1 pound packages prepared by the Herb Co. of W. Va. Quaker brand.)
Prescriptions carefully compounded. Local and office practice upon request. Respectfully, aug1—tf DR. R. H. HOLLIDAY.
